

What is its purpose?

What if you focus on presenting its purpose?

Where can you see/find this?

What is it analogous to?

Would presenting analogy be a good approach?

How may it look like?

What if you utilize some form of visualization?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

What do you think will happen if you don't have this?

Can you act it out?

Does acting it out help?

Can you say it differently?

How else would you call this?

Who can benefit from this?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

What are some examples of this?

What is the most important take away you want to teach?

How would you explain this to a five-year-old?

Does this concept have visualization?
Can we replace those visualizations with other things (e.g., characters)?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

When should you use this?

In what ways
is this better?
Are there
caveats?

In what ways is this useful?

Can the object
or visualization
represent people or their relationship?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?

Trigger
cards

What things can we
talk about for this
concept?